Notice to the Community from Kathleen Cuddy, Public Health Director, Cayuga County Health Department, Dated 11/21/20

“Due to the fact that COVID-19 is widespread in our community, the Cayuga Co. Health Dept. will no longer be announcing possible COVID-19 exposure locations, such as stores and restaurants, in Cayuga County. CCHD will continue to investigate each positive COVID-19 case and conduct contact tracing in the County; however, we will not be announcing the dates and times if an individual worked, shopped or ate at a particular location. Please note that all individuals who are identified as close contacts of positive cases will continue to be notified of their exposure. The public is encouraged to take precautions to protect themselves each and every time they leave their homes. There is a risk of exposure each time we go out in public, especially now with the increase of community spread of COVID-19 and the increased number of cases.”

For more information, see new Community Health Alerts issued on November 21 by several county agencies, including the Cayuga County Chamber of Commerce, Board of Health, and Legislature as well as the Cayuga County Health Department website.

New Book Publications from Local Presses and Authors

The Cricket Publisher of Aurora, Three Questions for Today's Jazz Musicians

Hello to you all from The Cricket Publisher of Aurora.

We are excited to let our friends and neighbors know that Three Questions for Today's Jazz Musicians is out and can be purchased locally.

Lilian Dericq (who spent a year in Aurora two decades ago) asked three questions to Jazz musicians regarding their “dream band,” the most memorable musical events of their career, and what they wish for the 21st century. Close to 350 well-known musicians from 42 countries answered, bringing a wider understanding of the world of jazz. With its many photos, this book delivers a thoughtful, eloquent, and even moving contemporary testimony of the lives, talent and desires of many of today’s greatest jazz musicians, and the role they play in everyone's life around the world.

You will find a convincing presentation of this amazing book at YouTube Three Questions for today's jazz musicians, and in the Book section of our website: cricketpublisher.com.

My Father's Journey: American Pilot to German P.O.W. and Back by Cindy Avery

My Father's Journey: American Pilot to German P.O.W. and Back is the poignant journey of Baldwin C. “Baldy” Avery from an idyllic childhood in Aurora to a World War II pilot in England to a desolate prisoner of war camp deep in German-occupied Poland and home again.

Experience firsthand Baldy’s struggle to survive the 20th century and all it brought—triumphs and tragedies, love and loss, and a legacy of service to country and community—with the power of faith and family at the heart of it all.

To tell his journey, his daughter, Cindy, herself a long-time former Aurora resident, was inspired to open a hymnal and discovered the hymns he always sang with such feeling had words unbelievably linked to a specific time of his life. These hymns and popular songs of the time introduce each chapter providing hints as to what is to come as you continue to read. And, because we are on a journey, each chapter ends with a reference to a trip—a highway, a detour, a roadblock.

With over 70 photos and an equal number of letters that Baldy wrote to his parents between 1941 and 1945, My Father's Journey unfolds as Cindy delves into her father’s collection of letters, journals, newspaper clippings, photos, and memoirs, and pieces them together to re-create his amazing and inspiring story.

The book is available now on Amazon: My Father's Journey: American Pilot to German P.O.W. and Back. A book signing event is planned for the spring (contingent on COVID).

Architectural Styles and Stories of Aurora, NY* by Claire R. Morehouse

Styles and Stories came into being because for the past forty-five years nobody else had written anything like it. While I was preparing to give a presentation on architectural styles to Aurora's Community Preservation Panel, I discovered that the book I hoped to find in our libraries didn't exist. The Styles section is essentially the basis for that presentation. Wherever I went, I became obsessed with identifying the architectural styles of buildings and roughly dating them. This renewed interest had hooked me.

Because of COVID-19, we went into our "lock down" and I was coming up with a lot of questions...about buildings as well as life. Judy Furness and Linda Kabelac had many answers about the former and lent me material from the Ledyard archives. The ideas for the book began to take shape. I listened to, as well as read, peoples' stories and started to write, draw buildings, and take pictures from empty streets. Ann Mathieson edited text for me. Linda Schwab as well as Judy Furness and Linda Kabelac read the drafts for accuracy and made suggestions. Rob LoMascolo agreed to put the book together and added the old illustrations that he had from Bill Hecht's collection. The cover is a photograph of Evening in Aurora, which Kari Ganoung Ruiz had begun in front of the Inn during a demonstration of techniques for night painting. I had purchased the painting a year ago, and she enthusiastically gave permission to use it.

Because this became such a community project, writing my book was exciting. I look at Aurora in ways that have many new dimensions, and I hope those of you who read it, do so too. A second printing is underway, and will be available in the same locations, Trader Rose Vintage, Jane Morgan's Little House, and The Inns of Aurora at the Village Market.

Message from the Friends of the Planetarium

The Friends of the Planetarium want to update you on the continuing efforts for the work that will make the Southern Cayuga Planetarium a state-of-the-art facility. Besides new projectors, we also have had the dome repainted to offer the best viewing and are now in the process of upgrading the Spitz projector (the old projector) to add drama to our presentations; you will be introduced to the show by the projector coming out of the floor and then having it project the night sky focusing on the topic of the presentation .

We hope you will join us when the theater again is allowed to open. It will definitely be an experience.

Recent Food Giveaways in Genoa Through Nourish NY

Governor Cuomo launched the Nourish NY Initiative in May of this year and it was expected to be funded only through October of 2020. This program initially provided $25 million to food banks across the state to buy food from upstate and central New York farms who have dairy products and produce to sell. Nearly 40 New York farms and producers are participating in this specific program. When Cuomo started the program in May, the intent was meant to help feed people with local produce during the coronavirus pandemic. In the beginning of November, the Governor announced that another $10 million was placed in the coffers for this program. This initiative actually tackles two problems at once: making sure that food doesn't get wasted and that the people of the state of NY have food that they need. This program is under the auspices of NYS Ag and Markets. NYS Ag and Markets provides the funds to the Central NY Food Bank of which CAP Cayuga/Seneca based in Auburn is affiliated with.

The Town of Genoa has had three food giveaways.

- One was hosted in May by ourselves and food was provided for 600 families.
- The next giveaway was in September and was hosted by the Towns of Genoa and Venice. Food was provided for 400 families.
- The most recent giveaway was November 21 and it was hosted by the Towns of Genoa, Scipio, and Venice. Food was distributed to another 400 families.

There are numerous food pantries in the Southern Cayuga County area that benefit from the assistance of CAP Cayuga/Seneca, who has access to the Nourish NY funds.

News from the Aurora Historical Society

On Saturday, December 5, the traditional weekend of “Christmas in Aurora,” the Aurora Historical Society (371 Main Street, on the rear courtyard of The Schoolhouse) will hold an open house from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. This will be a chance to enjoy the exhibit “Scoundrels and Scamps” in person, as well as to see some magnificent new acquisitions to the Village Archives.

Most notable among these acquisitions is a map of Levanna by Humphrey Howland, ca. 1805, which depicts a layout comparable to a small town, complete with public square, ferry service, and a street grid of wide main thoroughfares and several lane-ways. This stellar piece was made available through the cooperation of James Kliss and Marian Brown. Marian has also donated an 1859 wall map of Cayuga and Seneca counties. You’ll also want to see the fascinating documents, books, ledgers and more from the Frontenac Historical Society and from Michael Peter. Thank you to everyone!

Guests have been welcomed by calling ahead (or, for members, key access) since New York State entered Phase 4, and some have taken advantage of the opportunity. If you wish to reserve a particular time, you’re welcome to call or text 315-246-1130. Experience suggests, however, that drop-ins can be accommodated, perhaps with a few minutes’ wait. Be sure to bring your mask.

The Aurora Mobile Farmers’ Market in Patrick Tavern

Yes, it’s still going! The intrepid farmers and artisans are still bringing winter crops, fair trade items, baked goods, eggs, gifts, and more, to Patrick Tavern each Tuesday from 3:45-5:00 p.m. By the time you read this, a special sale of organic blueberries will have concluded, but a Beef Day (organic, grass-fed prime cuts) is in the works. Stop by Patrick Tavern (on the corner of Main St. and Dublin Hill Rd), email lschwab@wells.edu, or call/text 315-246-1130 with questions and for ordering information. Car-side service is available, too. Neighbors have been commenting on how nice it is to see the building in use, and the volume of orders speak to the service that is being provided. Prices are reasonable and the freshness and quality can’t be beat!

Cayuga County Hazard Mitigation Plan Update

Aurora's Christmas Pageant – 2020

By Claire Morehouse

In its long history, the Pageant has never been the way it will be this year!

Our “Picture Pageant” will go live on December 18 on YouTube. Pictures from previous years, as well as current nativity drawings, will illustrate the familiar readings and music.

The history of the pageant goes back perhaps seventy-five years. Lois Campbell, followed by her daughter Pru, worked with the children of the Aurora Presbyterian Church well before it joined with St. Paul’s Episcopal Church to become The United Ministry of Aurora. That merger happened fifty-two years ago. Richard Kuenkler, who was then pastor of the UMA, asked me to take over this production after Pru Campbell left the village. While thinking that he was quite mistaken at the time, I did have an idea.

Marie Taylor and I were teaching the Aurora Preschool. She was an active member in St. Patrick’s Congregation down the street. The ecumenical movement was just beginning, and Marie and I took then a giant step forward to include children from both village churches, other area churches, and those who had no church affiliation at all. We were in a perfect position to do this since we knew so many of the area children, and they knew us, having been in our preschool classes. To include so many, we kept adding more angels, shepherds, animals, and kings’ servants to our basic nativity roles. Over the years we have averaged about fifty participants in our cast each Christmas.

Initially, Richard Kuenkler was our organist. In the years after his departure, Scott Gross has volunteered to play the traditional Christmas music. Adults volunteer their time to help year after year. Because so many are involved, this is a true community venture that has become one of several area events we have to look forward to as Christmas approaches.

Michaela Groth contacted me a few weeks ago, writing, “Christmas isn’t cancelled, and maybe the Pageant doesn’t have to be either.” She offered her technical expertise to make “something” happen. Zaki Javed will be working with Michaela filming, editing, and working magic to create the production that will feature a collection of photos, old and new, as well as nativity illustrations by area artists of any age.

Please take pictures with your phone of Nativity Story artwork or previous years’ photograph prints and email them to aurorapageant2020@gmail.com. If you can’t send them electronically, mail them or bring them to me, Claire Morehouse, at Box 212, Aurora, NY 13026. We hope to receive everything by December 4, 2020. Thank you and we so look forward to showcasing your memories and artwork!

Christmas at the United Ministry of Aurora

Memorial Nativity Chapel Open

The Memorial Nativity Chapel at the United Ministry of Aurora is open from sun-up to sundown, and a little later, for meditation, prayer, and reflection. Everyone is welcome to enjoy the Chapel and the Labyrinth behind the chapel.

Light up Aurora for Christmas Eve!

Paper bags and battery-operated tea lights were distributed for Halloween; if you still have yours, we ask that you weight the bag with some sand, pebbles, or a couple of rocks; place the tealight inside; and place the “luminaria” on the sidewalk outside your building or in your window about 6:00 p.m. on Christmas Eve. You are then invited to do a walk-about or a drive-by to enjoy the hundreds of tiny glimmers of light in the darkness.

The batteries are good for several hours; perhaps “extinguish” them about 8:30 p.m.

Thanks to the following for enthusiastically and monetarily making LIGHT UP AURORA possible: Cayuga Lake National Bank, The Inns of Aurora, Scipio Lodge 110, The United Ministry, and St. Patrick's.

Christmas Eve Services

The United Ministry of Aurora invites the community to our Christmas Services.

Sunday, December 20

10:30 a.m. – Lessons and Carols

Thursday, December 24

5:00 p.m. – Christmas Eve Family Service with candle lighting, carols, and a Christmas story

8:00 p.m. – Traditional Service with Communion

Seating will be limited so it is recommended that you call ahead to reserve a pew for your family: 315-364-8543. Masks must be worn and all COVID protocol will be in place. Please check our Facebook page for any changes.

Live Christmas Music at the Howland Farm Museum

Saturday, December 5
1:00-4:00 p.m.

Stop by the Howland Farm Museum to enjoy live Christmas music performed on the porch! From the Auburn Chamber Orchestra, Denise and Carrie will be playing a mix of classic and contemporary Christmas tunes! Luke Moch will be playing guitar following the strings performance.

You must wear a mask and dress to be comfortable outdoors—forecast is cold! Bring a lawn chair and thick blanket! Bring a thermos of hot chocolate (although there are NO bathrooms). Feel free to wear all your red, green, silver & gold festive holiday coats, scarves, hats, and accessories!! THERE WILL BE A PRIZE FOR “BEST CHRISTMAS CHEER COSTUME” so don’t be afraid to have some fun and be ridiculous!

Please socially distance your group when setting up your chairs on the lawn—do not assume others are comfortable sitting close! I will be marking off seating area at a distance of 12 feet back from porch so that performers can perform without masks.

These musicians are generously donating their time in a year when most paid performance gigs have been canceled. I will have a tip jar out, please help support these local musicians! The world needs music!

Weather dependent. Rain date possibly Sunday, December 6, also still being discussed...

Join us for a fun evening and be sure to have a pencil and paper available so you can draw with him.
