We are feeling especially grateful this season
for the thoughtful touches that make our food pantry distributions feel a little brighter.

A huge thank-you to Peter Bakija and Southern Cayuga School art students for decorating grocery bags with beautiful holiday artwork. These hand-painted bags were used to pack food for our pantry clients and brought smiles along with groceries.

We also extend our sincere thanks to Doreen Nettleton's Girl Scout troop for donating heartfelt holiday greeting cards. Messages of kindness mean so much to our neighbors in need.

These special efforts are a powerful reminder that food assistance is about more than groceries - it's about dignity, compassion, and community. We are also appreciative of everyone who helps spread care to our neighbors with financial and food donations!

Reading & Discussion

The Semiquincentennial of the Revolution

We will be commemorating our nation's semiquincentennial by going beyond well-known events like Lexington & Concord to engage in a deeper and more comprehensive exploration of the Revolution. The War for Independence was as much a brutal civil war as it was a military struggle for national self-determination. Our readings will take us from a sweeping global perspective of imperial conflicts that set the stage for the War for Independence to a more focused exploration of convulsive events on the frontier of upstate New York. We will concentrate particularly on the experiences of people often ignored by traditional narratives of the Revolution: settlers, working people, African Americans, Indigenous Americans, women – loyalists and pacifists as well as patriots.

When all is said and done,
how “revolutionary” was the American Revolution?

All are welcome to join us as we consider this and other provocative questions during our 2026 winter/spring reading & discussion series

January 18, February 8, March 1, March 22,
April 12, and May 3
Books will be provided.

Discussions take place at Opendore in Sherwood, with a remote Zoom option
